

BARRY LAZARUS

CEO / NOTARY PUBLIC
barry@lazaruslegal.com.au

We'd be lying if we told you that this bloke isn't the big honcho of our team, but his name is a dead give-away. The founder of Lazarus Legal, Barry is an old school, tough as nails lawyer. They don't forge litigators like this anymore.

With decades of experience in both Australia and South Africa, his wisdom is as renowned as his name. Back in the days when Schwarzenegger and Van Damme were kicking ass on VHS, Barry was kicking ass in the courtroom. And after all these years, he still has a reputation for refusing to back down.

Barry is definitely the badass you'd want in a fight - in court or otherwise. But really, he's a big softie. Just don't let him know you know that (although he probably won't read this anyway - navigating the Internet is not his strong point).

Aside from putting other lawyers in their place, taking long walks on the beach and spending time with his family, Barry enjoys seeing others succeed. Not only is Barry a staunch and unmoving litigator, he has sharp business and commercial acumen having started up ventures from scratch and growing them into full blown franchises - from real estate, to creating ice cream, to making pasta. With his experience on both sides of the commercial and legal equation, you want this guy to be on your side, whether you're the next Zuckerberg realising your genius, or the next Zuckerberg taking on your opponents in court.

When Barry is not busy lawyering about, he is a part-time lawn bowler and a wannabe comedian, but never took both as a day job, because let's face it, he's a lot better at his day job.

If someone ever threatens you to lawyer up...relax, call Barry and he'll handle the rest.

RISE ABOVE...

