

MARK LAZARUS

DIRECTOR

mark@lazaruslegal.com.au

The visionary behind the business and the fresh blood of the Lazarus Legal team, Mark (or Laz as he is often known) owes much of his success to his past stories and experiences. And he's made it his personal goal to bring that wisdom and formula to the firm.

He's a bit of jet setter, splitting his time between Australia and the UK, maximising every hour of his professional life. He thrives on this adrenalin. It allowed him to work in private practice in Sydney, act for a host of famous celebrities in London, do a two-year stint as a NSW barrister (and not the pretentious coffee type in the Melbourne laneways) and more recently did a gig as the Legal Director covering Europe, the Middle East and Africa for one of the world's coolest fast-moving consumer good brands!

As an Aussie and UK lawyer and former barrister, Mark not only has the gift of the gab but he'll walk the walk to prove it too. He likes to think he's a bit like Harvey Specter or Michael Corleone, the main difference is you can actually retain him as your lawyer and consigliere. He'll tell you how it really is and will take on any challenge head on. Although litigation and court advocacy comes naturally to him, commercial and IP is what gets his blood pumping!

When Mark is not out there doing his thing, you will probably catch him chilling at home with his family, on the sidelines of the soccer (football) pitch cheering on his two boys, crawling through mud obstacles, or training hard at the gym. Passion and commitment is what drives Mark to succeed, along with his burning desire to disrupt the legal profession by finding new ways to change the game. He has sights on the future.

So if you're breaking new ground, ahead of the times, and on the verge of something big, but you need someone who's got your back and who can give you straight up advice, this is the guy you will want on speed dial.
